

Contested Wills and Estates

The death of a loved one is never easy. But often after a death in the family arguments can arise over what has and what has not been left. Members of the family may believe that they have been left insufficient financial provision or that a Will is not valid or that the Testator did not have the mental capacity to make a valid Will or was unduly influenced.

We can offer fixed fee packages to review any potential claim that you may have. For further assistance, please do not hesitate to contact Debra Higgins on 01623 655111 or email dhiggins@marchantsolicitors.co.uk
