

Industrial Disease

A number of workers and former workers have unfortunately been subjected to either substances or working practices that have put them at risk of developing an industrial disease. If you have been affected by deafness, vibration white finger, been exposed to asbestos or any other recognised industrial disease then please do not hesitate to contact Debra Higgins on 01623 655111 or email dhiggins@marchantsolicitors.co.uk who will be happy to provide a free preliminary assessment.

Please note that many workers who have been exposed to asbestos may have had that exposure as far as 40 or 50 years ago but you may still be able to claim. Similarly if you are the relative of a former worker who has tragically died through an industrial disease you may still be entitled to claim on behalf of their estate namely if it is within three years of the date of their death.
